Jewish Cemeteries- An Annotated Bibliography

Based on the Collections of

The National Library,

and

The Library of the Ben Zvi Institute

Israel Genealogy Research Association

Jerusalem, 2014

Introduction

With an eye toward the 35th IAJGS International Conference on Jewish Genealogy to be held in Jerusalem in July, 2015 and wishing to help the participants develop more interesting genealogical sources, the bibliography of the 1997 edition has been completely revamped, updated and enlarged.

The National Library has greatly increased its collection of literature on Jewish cemeteries since the first edition of this book. This present bibliography includes collections of books on cemeteries from the libraries of the Ben Zvi Institute and the Israel Genealogical Society. The Ben Zvi Institute, founded in Jerusalem in 1950 by the second president of the state of Israel, Yitzhak Ben Zvi, is dedicated to two major fields of research: Eretz Yisrael and the Sephardic and Misrachi communities. The Israel Genealogical Society, founded in 1986, has an extensive library primarily consisting of gift donations, and reference books purchased for the benefit of the entire membership. All the added references have been equally treated as in the first edition, so please read carefully the 1997 Edition Foreword that follows.

The 1997 Edition Foreword

The embryo of the Jewish National and University Library in Jerusalem was the "Midrash Abrabanel Library", formed in 1892 by the local B'nai Brith Lodge. With a collection of nearly 30,000 books it was renamed as "The Jewish National Library" in 1920. In 1925 the Library was incorporated into the Hebrew University and since then, known as "The Jewish National and University Library." (JNUL)

The JNUL is the national library of the Jewish people. It collects and preserves manuscripts, incunabula and books and also non-book material like maps, written and recorded music, etc. - in Hebrew and other Jewish languages (Yiddish, Ladino, Judeo Arabic), and world literature about the Jewish people, its history and culture. Today, its holdings amount to three million books on all science subjects, including a very rich collection on Jewish topics. Its spectacular growth is due to the depository law of two copies of every title published in the country, to generous donations from all over the world and to the post-WW2 contribution of 200,000 items by "Jewish Cultural Reconstruction Inc." dealing with the rescue of cultural treasures confiscated by the Nazis.

The present bibliography has been prepared in the framework of the worldwide Jewish Cemeteries Project conducted by the Jewish Genealogical Societies and as a contribution of the Israel Genealogical Society to the 5th International Seminar on Jewish Genealogy to be held in Paris in July 1997.

This compilation is based on all the JNUL printed books on Jewish cemeteries (except: i. books dealing with Jewish sepulchral art in which photographs do not make for clear reading of inscriptions, ii. books dealing with archaeology, iii. books dealing with deciphering Hebrew initials and abbreviations in inscriptions). 181 books (of nearly 210 in the classified catalog) have been selected. They cover many towns in Europe, some in the American Continent, North Africa and the Middle East. This collection is multilingual, but over half was published in German and a great part of these books deal with cemeteries in Germany. The old Jewish cemetery of Prague is certainly the most "popular" cemetery with thirteen books. The Jewish cemeteries of some countries, like Brazil, Denmark or Sweden have been completely inventoried till the fifties of our century. A concise statistical analysis of this collection will point out the dimensions and value of this annotated bibliography.

The present work includes:

- 1 the complete bibliographical description of each item (Hebrew/Cyrillic books' titles are transliterated in Latin characters; words out of the text are put in rectangular brackets]
- 2 the English translation of the title, if necessary,
- 3 the book location in the JNUL.
- 4 the annotations on:
 - 4.1 the number of graves, inscriptions or cited names,
 - 4.2 the period covered by the graves, register or list,
 - 4.3 all the graves (men and women)!only men/only Rabbis! outstanding personalities,
 - 4.4 the cemetery location: town/village - country (English spelling if available, e.g.: not Firenze, Moskva or Wien, but Florence, Moscow or Vienna. The spelling of the other names are based on Mokotoff WOWW or Rand-McNally "Atlas of the World", 1993 ed,
 - 4.5 biographies and/or genealogical trees, if any,
 - 4.6 photographs of graves or portraits,
- 5 the book arrangement:
 - 5.1 chronological or by cemetery row,
 - 5.2 graves inscriptions or register lists,
 - 5.3 index if any: alphabetical, chronological, general etc..

As many books deal with more than one town or village, it has been impossible to classify them according to a geographical key. This is why the whole bibliography is alphabetically arranged by authors names. A current number precedes each item. Two very useful geographical indexes follow the bibliography:

1. region/town/village - country
2. country - region/town/village

Each entry in the indexes is followed by the number of the book to which it is related.

A by-product of this project is the alphabetical list of the genealogical trees found in these books.

Finally, let me please thank here the librarians of the JNUL Judaica Reading Room for their valuable support.

Statistical Analysis of the Bibliography

Distribution of Elements

Elements	1997	2004	%
Books	181	245	135%
Cemeteries	ca400	ca500	125%
Tombstones	ca75,500	ca95,000	126%
Countries	31	39	125%
Localities/Regions	296	467	158%
Family trees	94	112	125%
Languages	18	18	100%
Family Trees	94	117	124%

Between 1997 and 2004 the bibliography has grown by 25% in all fields, except for the field of localities where the number has grown by more than 58%. This can be explained by the fact that several books deal with an entire region, detailing each and every locality.

The number of languages - 18- in which the books are written remained steady. This is the list: Croatian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, English, French, German, Hebrew, Hungarian, Italian, Latin, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, Spanish, Swedish and Yiddish.

The 2004 bibliography contains: 84 books were written in German, 58 in Hebrew, 41 in English, 18 in Polish, 17 in French and the 27 remaining books in all the other languages.
